SOURCE EVALUATIONS ARE DEFINITIVE. APPRAISAL OF CONTENT IS TENTATIVE.

1. [Redacted]
2. All the units of the whole command are located in Rostock/Gehlsdorf. (One segment of the garrison in Gehlsdorf was originally intended to be used as a civil engineering school.) The only installation that the command has outside Gehlsdorf is a vacation site at Hermann Strasse 36, Rostock (one villa and one barrack on the north-west corner of Hermann Strasse and August-Bebel Strasse), which is used solely by officers. The former "Staendehaus" on Stein Strasse in Rostock (previously the command headquarters) has been turned over to civil authorities. The "Haus der Offiziere" west of Stein Strasse and north of Wall Strasse (by the stone gate) in Rostock is visited by both naval and army personnel. Two apartment buildings are located on the east side of Pressentin Strasse in Gehlsdorf between the church square and Fritz-Reuter Strasse, and two more buildings are under construction. The families of the members of the naval command are to be quartered in the four residential apartment buildings. (W)
3. The sections of the command and the lower units are given cover names which are used, for example, when making telephone calls. The cover names were changed on 5 November 1958. Until that date the cover name of the command was "Capri." Two-digit cover numbers are used in connection with the cover name.
4. The command employs more than fifty civilian functionaries in Gehlsdorf, mainly young girls plus eight to ten uniformed women. The civilian women also work in the communications center.

5. Members of the Sea-Hydrographic Service also work in Gehlsdorf, but the majority of them wear civilian clothes.
6. The guard company is relieved every third month, and the transport company every sixth month.
7. The naval staff company which belongs to the East German Navy is stationed in Kuehlungsborn.
8. The command is presumably expecting the arrival of one more vice-admiral in the latter part of 1958 after completion of a course which presumably takes place in the Soviet Union.

Naval Vessels in Rostock and Warnemuende

9. The following naval vessels were stationed in Rostock as of 20 November 1958:

- a. [redacted] apparently of the RIGA class) has since June 1958 been undergoing an overhaul at the Neptune Shipyard in Rostock.
- b. [redacted] (apparently of the RIGA class), was also at the Neptune Shipyard in Rostock (built in 1954). 25X1
- c. The flagship ERNST THAELMANN (built before 1954 in Germany) was at the Neptune Shipyard in Rostock on 20 November 1958. The designation "flagship" is generally used.
- d. Two vessels of the light cruiser class which were built in East Germany were in Warnemuende on 20 November 1958.

- e. The following is a description of RIGA-class escort vessel,

- 1) The ship's commander is a lieutenant. The entire crew with the exception of the commander is aboard the vessel.
- 2) Origin: The ship was built in the Soviet Union in 1954. The markings on all instruments and equipment are in Russian. The ship has the Soviet designation "SKR" the meaning of which [redacted] allegedly corresponds to the German description "KSS" (Kuesten-Schutz-Schiff). 25X1
- 3) Its estimated length is more than eighty meters.
- 4) Its armament consists of two 100-mm guns which are placed diagonally in front of the main bridge, and there is one 100-mm gun abaft the antiaircraft turret. Two antiaircraft machineguns are placed on the turret behind the smokestack. There are two depth charge launchers on the port side and two depth charge launchers on the starboard side of the quarter-deck 150 to 175 cm from the railing. Two mine tracks start abaft the smokestack and run parallel with the stern approximately 50 cm from the railing.

- 5) There is a main bridge (HBS) forward in front of the slanting smokestack and an auxiliary bridge (BBS) abaft the smokestack in front of the antiaircraft gun.
- 6) There are davits for two lifeboats midship (one lifeboat on each side). The lifeboats are equipped with propeller screws which cannot be operated mechanically, but are for manual operation. In addition there is a very small row-boat aboard the vessel.
- 7) There is one rod antenna on the auxiliary bridge, and there are two antennas on a girder mast behind the main bridge as follows:
- One large antenna on the port side with three or four horizontal cross-rods above each other which constantly revolve around the central vertical axis.
 - One smaller antenna on the starboard side with two or three horizontal cross-rods above each other which do not revolve.

From the bow these antennas have the following appearance:

- 8) There is a radio cabin on the starboard side under the smokestack.
- 9) The engine room is located midship between the antiaircraft turret and the smokestack, and it is accessible from the starboard side.
- 10) The fuel tank is located in the stem.
- 11) The officers' mess is below the main bridge.
- 12) For quartering the crew there are several small cabins for able seamen 1st class, almost directly under the gun. There is one large cabin for approximately 20 seamen abaft, almost directly under the antiaircraft turret, and one large cabin for approximately 20 seamen midship between the officers' mess and the galley.
- 13) The galley is located ahead of the radio cabin.
- 14) Sick-bay is abaft almost directly under the gun and is run by a "Feldscher-Unterleutnant."

- 15) A radiation disinfecting station is located at the bow where there is a round, heavy hatch covering a 2-meter-deep vertical shaft with a ladder. There is room for one man only through the shaft. The shaft leads to a corridor with showers and adjacent changing rooms. A radiation proof room adjoins this, and from there it is possible to go up to the main bridge.
- 16) The whole ship is classified "V.V.S." and the bridge is "G.V.S."
- 17) The following is a sketch of the stern superstructure seen from above (not to scale):

Submarine Training in Swinoujscie (Swinemuende)

g.

- 1) The East German Navy has not, prior to the summer of 1958 at least, possessed submarines.
- 2) [redacted] a six-month course 25X1 in submarine training in the harbor of Swinoujscie, Poland, [redacted] approximately fifty men from the East German Navy participated. 25X1 These courses are still taking place there.

Soviet Officers in the East German Navy

16. At least four Soviet naval officers, highest grade commander, lived in the garrison of the East German naval command at Hermann Strasse 36 in Rostock in November 1958, and they had been there for several months. They were called "specialists," were usually dressed in civilian clothes, took part in the naval command meetings, and were continually occupied aboard ships and boats belonging to the East German Navy where they specialized in instructing East German naval officers in operating the navigation and radar equipment. In their garrison they played their radios very loudly, probably to make it impossible for the East German naval officers to listen to their conversations through the thin walls. However, "naval advisors" of the type formerly around no longer exist.

Organization of the Medical Service

11. "Med.-Verwaltung/Seestreitkraefte" in Gehlsdorf is placed under the "sector surgeon." The latter is subordinate to the "flotilla surgeon." There are medical orderlies and doctors aboard the individual ships.

25X1.

The Marine Infantry

12. [redacted] there are no East German marine infantry units.

22. Jetty for barges and small boats.
23. One-story wooden barrack about 5 x 5 meters (one room) with a guard at the entrance gate.
24. Solid wall, about 2 meters high, surrounding the whole area east of Pressentin Strasse (previously there only was a fence).
25. Partly board fence and partly barbed wire enclosing the area west of Pressentin Strasse.
26. Lawn (Vice-Admiral Verner's hobby).

Construction Method

Unless otherwise stated, the buildings are of stone, built after 1955, with roofs that are almost flat.

Roads

The roads sketched are of concrete and are the normal road width. Only the road west of "Heiz/Kulturhaus" is half width. In front of garage No. 7 there is a concrete-surfaced yard.
